

Warming Up The Workplace

A compilation of thirty-eight monthly columns from 2003-2008 by Frank and Susan Pastizzo of Warm Up The Workplace, Inc. plus a reprinting of their original CHERISH: Exploring Ways to Warm up our Living and Working Places (2002). WARMING UP THE WORKPLACE is divided into four sections: Attitude, Group Consciousness, Self-Awareness, and Communicating. The chapters are short and concise and illustrate keen insights into behaviors at work and how crucial it is to maintain respectful AND engaging work environs. Drawing from careers in health care, teaching, administration and management, Frank and Susan combine humor and substance to inspire us to bring our best selves to each day and each interaction, and to behold our workspaces as pivotal environments within the connections of the community continuum. One grand example of their understanding is a question they pose for audiences in their nationally touring staff development program: If you are a school teacher and are apprehensive about the level of care your elderly parent is receiving in a hospital, will it affect your ability to teach in a classroom of students?-AND -If you work in a hospital and are apprehensive about your child's treatment by a teacher, does it affect your ability to care for your patients? This book is an ideal read to prepare ourselves for any given day in any setting. Frank and Susan hold true that all services are human services and that being good company makes a good company. WARMING UP THE WORKPLACE makes us take an honest look at how we either connect with or detach ourselves from those around us. It inspires us to stay kind and to do good things for one another and to practice positive engagement, which promotes our most confident work and our best results as humans. Frank Pastizzo delights audiences with his CHERISH and Warm

Up The Workplace programs at hospitals, schools, IBM, Fidelity, John Deere, colleges, businesses, government agencies, associations and conferences throughout the United States.
