

Calm & Chaos, With Kids Your Life Will Never be the Same

Here I am, a mother of three, in my late, late 40s knocking on the door of 50, doing what most moms do--laundry, dishes, juggling school, job, and cleaning. The older I get, the more I realize that my dysfunctional family is more of the normal life, than what I had always dreamed was normal. So how do moms deal with life in general? We just keep living one day at a time, focus on what is important for the moment, and realize that our children grow up way too fast.
