

The Scroll

The Scroll is a multi-generational historical novel about the survivors of Masada that draws from a real archaeological find the divorce document of a real-life woman named Miriam. The document was issued at Masada in 71 C.E., and discovered in the lower chamber of a Bedouin cave in Wadi Murabbaat in the Judean Desert in 1951. The story begins on Masada's final, horrific day. Its characters must choose between nation and family, and finally, between life and death. Will they learn the lesson of Masada's downfall, or will enemies --- within and without --- rob it from them? Though it deals with events that took place two millennia ago, The Scroll helps us make sense of the complexities of today's Israel and the choices its leaders make.
